A Mother's Soliloquy

Written on Mother's Day May 13, 1956

I feel so lonely for you see they are all gone now.
Try hard as I can, I can't forget- it just sticks somehow.
Feeling sorry for myself – I suppose – most-Mothers do.
I guess it's because – I do – so –"miss you".
God designed it, so it had to be – I'm quite sure.
I knew you had to leave – to make a life of your own.
I must make the best of it–though I oft feel so alone.
I recall little Bobby's parting on June 3, 1923 he was first to go –
He left my heart bleeding and sore because I loved him so
He's gone – but we have the promise – It's only for a little while.
He's just sleeping – I will never forget his last sweet smile–
Nor, as he sweetly lisped –"Mama", the last word – he said
It was only 13 months and 5 days with us he stayed.
God knew best – I do not question His wisdom or Love,
I know He is ever present with me, and watches from above.
The next parting came in nineteen hundred – and thirty six.
Edith and Helen must go –and with others of like "faith" – learn to mix
Having completed 'High School' – to college now, they must go –
It was to Washington Missionary College –they went you know
The careful planning–and busy day's ended all too soon for me,
God was leading but with tear filled eyes, I could hardly see–
The morning they left, I knew they were going –from –our home –
It would never be the same again nor in the years to come,
I knew my work for them was about finished when they left that day –
And as many Mothers have done – I knelt down to pray.
I could only write to them now – but to God I could humbly plead,
Ask Him through - interessary prayer– to supply their daily need.
Dear Edith and Helen – I know I often failed – I tried to do my best,
That day I gave you wholly to God – I knew He would do the rest.
You remember the dedication service before we parted that morn,
The severe ordeal endured –but left me – sad when you were gone,
Only one left now our youngest – little sister May our baby child.
Dear little May – so frail – so gentle – so sweet so–mild
God sent you to us about two years after Bobby was taken away
You the "apple of our eye" to all the family – then, and 'til this day,
You were dedicated to God–long before the day of your birth,
To the only one that is able to keep you, the "source" of great worth
The years passed by swiftly six of them you must have a choice too,
In July 1942, you embarked –How empty our home now without you,
I often in memory drift back to the days of my motherhood
I would like to live them all over again if I could
If I could hear your childish prattle and the patter of little feet,
If I could but kiss away your tears – see again your little faces so sweet,
It would give me the greatest joy – intrinsic happiness –and much delight –
To take again your little forms in my arms –and hold you– oh so tight,
It seems I would hold you – just hold you –never let you go,
Mothers do feel that way – and it is because they love their children so.

Most Cancer Can Be Cured

The American Cancer Society has designated 1973 as the "Year of Earlier Diagnosis," according to the Society's 1972 Annual Report issued recently.

In addition to its heavy investment in research, the ACS is working to save many more lives from cancer NOW through means already available. "All evidence points to the fact that most cancer can be cured if diagnosed early enough," ACS President Arthur G. James, M.D., and Board Chairman Charles R. Eberson declare in an opening statement of the Report

The Report details a cooperative demonstration project with the National Cancer Institute to lower the breast cancer death rate through earlier detection. Twenty such centers will be established this year. Also, a stepped-up drive to motivate every woman 20 years and older, or under 20 at risk, to have a Pap test, which can identify cervical cancer before its symptoms appear, has been launched.

The fact that thousands of Americans are being cured of cancer each year is evidence brought to life by the true stories of two people in Michigan who have been treated for bowel cancer.

As Dr. James and Mr. Eberson explain, the action has been "successful in transforming the character of the colon-rectum site of cancer from one that 'nobody talks about' to one that can be discussed freely publicly, and can also be cured if detected early. And the means at hand include the 'procto' for all who are 40 or over."

The Michigan people featured in the Report are ACS volunteers helping new patients to adjust to life after cancer treatment through hospital visits and the proof of their own vibrant lives. A similar program, the ACS Reach to Recovery program, helps the women cope with the personal crisis of breast removal in cancer treatment.

The emphasis on rehabilitation of the cancer patient, along with Public Education and Professional Education, indicates where the nation's largest private voluntary health agency is heading in the 1970's, while maintaining its vital cancer research role.

Despite the increase in Federal support of cancer research the ACS says that it was bombarded with requests for support beyond the nearly $54,000,000 the Society was able to allocate for research last year.

As Lane W. Adams, ACS Executive Vice President explains in the new Report, "One result of the passage of the National Cancer Act has become dramatically apparent. There is greater need than ever before for the private, voluntary agency –ACS. The Act provided for greater appropriation of government funds for cancer research but as even larger number of qualified scientists have requested grants from the Society. Though we provided a record $24,000,000 for cancer research, approved requests for research support this past year included $34,900,000 that could not be funded."

In 1970 the ACS received a historic show of support from the American people; combined income from Crusade and legacies was $78,818,538. Crusade income was $6,733,155 greater than 1971. This vote of confidence was a tribute to the Society's corps of more than two million volunteers who carried the Crusade wish – "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime" to communities everywhere.

GIRL SCOUT ANNUAL MEETING

The Virginia Skyline Girl Scout Council celebrated its 10th Anniversary Sat. with over 300 delegates, visitors, and Girl Scouts in attendance. The meeting was held at the King of the Sea Restaurant in Danville with Mr. Dewey Swicegood, Danville, serving as Chairman and host on behalf of District I. This District which serves the counties of Patrick, Franklin, Henry, Pittsylvania, Halifax, and 1/3 of Mecklenburg County is one of six Districts in the Council's 36½ counties in Virginia and is served by 27 United Funds Chests. Prior to the meeting the Council President, Mrs. David Pinkerton, Lynchburg; Executive Director, Miss Gertrude Richardson; and Mrs. Dewey Swicegood, and other dignitaries, plus an Honor Guard of 20 Girl Scouts were on hand at the Danville Airport to greet Brigadier General Lillian Dunlap and Congressman W. C. (Dan) Daniel.

General Dunlap, Chief of the Army Nurse Corps and one of two women Generals in the U.S. Army, was the keynote speaker of the Annual Meeting. Introduced by Congressman Daniel, General Dunlap's topic was "These Changing Times."

Two Girl Scout volunteers were the recipients of the Thanks Badge, the highest award in Girl Scouting. Mrs. Kenneth Tinsley, Columbia, S.C., formerly of Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Louis Eli, Danville, were honored for their many years of service to Girl Scouting and their communities. Also receiving special recognition was Mrs. Robert Webber of Earlysville.

The Virginia Skyline Council-Wide Award was presented to Mr. Robert J. Dunahoe, Jr. of Roanoke. For many years Mr. Dunahoe has been on hand at his home on top of Tinker Mountain to give a warm welcome to the weary Girl Scouts who come off a three or four-day backpacking trip on the Appalachian Trail. He and Mrs. Dunahoe would see to it that there was plenty of dry firewood, fresh water, cokes or hot chocolate, a cozy place to sleep, and the doting hospitality of two "grandparents." Many letters from Girl Scouts who have known this friendship have come into the Council Office, but one Scout summed it up so well when she said, "It was worth the hike just to meet him. He has no children so he said he has to love other people's children–so that is exactly what he does. I wish there were more people in this world who still care like he does."

The awards were made by Mrs. David Pinkerton and narrated by the Council Public Relations Chairman, Mr. Adrian Cronauer, Roanoke.

New Board Officers were installed by Mrs. T. N. Warren, Clifton Forge; Mrs. James Sprunt, Staunton, 1st Vice-President; Mrs. V. E. James, Martinsville, Secretary; and Mrs. O. K. Miller, Blacksburg, Assistant Secretary.

The meeting ended with a selection sung by a quartet from Averett College and a solo by Senior Girl Scout, Beth Wertigo of Danville. Attending from Appomattox were Mrs. Floyd Flint, and Mrs. Claude Thompson

WASHINGTON – Representative Dan Daniel today urged the Senate Judiciary Committee to approve a proposed constitutional amendment banning forced busing in the public schools in order to achieve racial balances.

Such an amendment, he said, is needed to put the courts and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on notice that forced busing is not required. "I am convinced", Daniel told the Committee, "that the American people, who are overwhelmingly opposed to busing, expect this Congress to take some affirmative action to ease the tensions, clarify the uncertainty and establish a national policy."

The Fifth District Congressman said the busing problem "is one of the most pressing and important domestic issues in America today" and declared that public education "already has suffered because of the anxious frustration through which we have passed in recent years." This uncertainty, he asserted, will grow greater as time goes on and "will continue to erode the fabric of the education establishment and if this condition persists, there eventually may be little worth saving."

The neighborhood school, Daniel declared, has become a vital part of the home - school partnership in developing our youth and asserted that the interests of parents "is destined to be more vibrant when the school is close and less likely when the school may be 10 or 20 miles away".

The Congressman strongly opposed cross - jurisdictional busing and asserted that if the Supreme Court should uphold the decision of the Federal District Court in the Richmond case, "the future of our public schools will be bleak indeed". It is up to Congress, he said, "to end the hodge-podge patterns dictated by the Federal courts and HEW. School policies should never be settled by Federal action, which over-rules state action, so long as the state rulings are in conformity with the Constitution."

Daniel said the public schools are in danger "so long as some Federal judges continue to think they are school superintendents and some HEW bureaucrats persist in measuring every successful school program on the basis of the degree of racial mixing that has been achieved. A constitutional amendment, clearly worded and rigidly enforced, is obviously the only real answer to our problem. This should be approved by Congress and submitted to the states without further delay. We cannot continue to wait and see our schools submerged in further uncertainty and disruption. The cost of later restoring that which is now being eaten away may be greater than we imagine".

Washington Youth Tour

A luncheon was held on April 14 at Southside Electric Cooperative for the students participating in the "Rural Electric Washington Youth Tour" program. This tour is sponsored locally by Southside Electric Cooperative and is arranged through the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association. The young people, along with many of their parents, were greeted by Mr. R. H. Carter, Assistant to the Manager, and the luncheon was served from the Manor's Service Department.

After a tour of the S.E.C. facilities of the Cooperative located directly behind the Cooperative buildings, the students were presented on information concerning electric cooperatives both locally and nationally. Of the sixteen students competing, twelve of them will win an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. and each of the others will win a $25.00 Savings Bond. The Washington Tour, as annual national event since 1967, will include approximately 1,000 young people from across the nation. It provides an opportunity for these youth to see their federal government in action. It also educates them on the importance and magnitude of the National Rural Electric Cooperative System.

Those participating in the competition are: Wanda James, Amelia High School; Mike Armistead, Amelia Academy; Nancy Tucker, Staunton River High School; Fannie Bell Blake, Brunswick Academy; Carl Douglass, William Campbell High School; Aaron Tippit, Altavista High School; Scott Burnette, Rustburg High School; Audrey Baker, Randolph Henry High School; Roger Randolph Thrower, Dinwiddie High School; Mary Kay Davis, Lunenburg Central High School; David Johnson, Nottoway Senior High School; Debbie Amos, Kenston Forest Academy; Debbie Proffitt, Powhatan High School; Earl Mottley, Prince Edward Academy; Susan Saunders, Prince Edward High School; Kenneth Warren Jamerson, Appomattox High School.
